To whom it may concern,

My husband and I hired Troy Walker, of Clearwater Homes, to build an addition on our cottage in Sylvan Lake. From our initial discussions to the completion of the project, Troy was very professional and pleasant to deal with.

When Troy first came to our cottage to provide us with a quote, he was very thorough and answered all the questions we had. He came across as very knowledgeable about his line of work. He brought up aspects of the job we were not aware of, made recommendations and seemed incredibly trustworthy. We had to get permits from the Town, which was a very difficult, but Troy was very helpful during the entire process.

During the course of construction, Troy was very communicative. We live in Edmonton so we were not able to come to the site as often as we would have liked. However, Troy contacted me at least once a week to give me an update on the progress and always sent several photos so we could see what had been completed. He would also let me know what was coming up for the following week. There were a few minor problems that came up over the project (like with any project), and Troy always attended to them immediately and made sure everything in the cottage was just the way we wanted it.

When the project was complete, Troy did a very thorough walk through with us. He made sure we were satisfied with the finished product. The entire addition including trim work, flooring, tile work, and painting was done with great precision and care. It is clear that Troy takes great pride in his work and his main priority is to make his clients happy. We are so pleased with the new addition on our cottage. It looks fantastic and we can't wait to enjoy it for years to come. I would highly recommend Troy and his company to anyone looking to do a new home build or home renovation project.

Sincerely,

Jenny Stokes
